

Disclaimer

Although the information provided on the O-PAC Ontwikkelingsmij (OOM) website is compiled with the utmost care and although OOM is of the opinion that this information correctly represents the state of affairs at the time of publication on the OOM website, OOM cannot guarantee that this information is or will remain either correct or complete. OOM or any of its affiliates cannot be held liable for any damage ensuing from using (or, conversely, being unable to use), trusting, or acting on information provided on the OOM website.

While OOM has the intention to ensure that its website is continuously available, OOM can also not be held liable for any damage ensuing from the unavailability of the OOM website at any time or during any period. The publication of the OOM website may, without prior notice, be discontinued either temporarily or forever.

OOM reserves the right to make changes and/or updates with respect to the information contained on the OOM website at any time without notice.

The information on the OOM website may only be used, copied or distributed in unmodified form for informal personal purposes.

OOM points out that if you surf to the website of another organisation via a link on the OOM website, OOM cannot take responsibility for the correctness or completeness of any information provided on the other website, nor can OOM be held liable for such information.

If you access any part of the OOM website, you are presumed to have read and understood the above. Users of this OOM website agree to the terms and conditions of using this website. Any dispute arising from the use of this website is subject to laws of the Netherlands and the jurisdiction of the Dutch courts.